Dear Member of the European Parliament, I am writing with extreme urgency regarding Iran. Millions of Iranians peacefully protested last night. The regime responded with deadly force. Civilians have been killed, and many more are at risk. To hide these crimes, the Islamic Republic has now imposed a near-total internet shutdown, cutting the people off from the world. This is a critical moment. Every hour of silence costs lives. I urge you to publicly condemn the internet shutdown, push for immediate EU action, and stand as a voice for the Iranian people before more civilians are killed. Your action can save lives.
